TL/N: The author wants to explain the "coding" culture through the perspective of a cowardly and hapeless romantic. They usually make very subtle moves on their crush, and when they flirt, they send very vague signals, which makes it hard for their crush to understand their intentions. That's why the author wants to tell them to man up, because if not, she'll get snatched away by someone else.

TL/N: Lit. "red envelope/package" Hokkien transcription of Standard Mandarin Hóng-bāo: a monetary gift which is given during holidays or special occasions like weddings, graduations, or the birth of a baby
PR/N: Attributed to Laozi
This quote appears to originate from the Dao De Jing. Verse 56, whose opening lines are "知者不言，言者不知" which is literally translated as "the knower does not speak, the speaker does not know"
